THE GOLD OF LUXEMBOURG

People have been fermenting juice from traditional apples and pears in our region at least as far back as the Romans, but over the last century, this tradition has been in sharp decline, with much of the fruit going to waste.

As Luxembourg's first cidrey, we are working to revive the tradition of cider-making, putting good use to the otherwise wasted fruit, and breathing new life into local traditional meadow orchards. Today we work with more than 300 farmers to revive, maintain and improve traditional orchards, paying a fair price for their fruit.

Ramborn is the first Luxembourgish cider and perry producer. We only ferment the freshly pressed juice of apples and pears grown exclusively in traditional meadow orchards of large, standard trees. No concentrate. No industrial plantations.

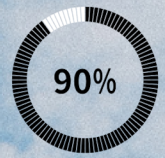

Traditional apple and pear varieties – many unique to the region – grow in nearby orchards, each one a habitat to a huge number of micro-flora, fungi, mosses, lichens, and insects, inviting a bevy of birds and small mammals as well as badgers, foxes, owls and other birds of prey. These orchards are a vital source of biodiversity; they are Europe's rainforests in need of protection.

Not only are Ramborn almost singlehandedly restoring Luxembourg's traditional orchards, they are upholding this country's proud, but forgotten, cider heritage through the creation of fabulous, bold and innovative products.”

Gabe Cook aka The Ciderologist (The BBC)

DID YOU KNOW

Over the 20th century, Luxembourg lost 90% of its traditional apple trees, from 1.2 million down to just 120,000.

A woman with long dark hair, wearing a grey long-sleeved shirt and a black vest, is pruning a young tree. She is holding a pair of red-handled pruning shears and is cutting a branch. The tree has several thin, bare branches extending upwards. The background is a grassy field with a fence line in the distance under an overcast sky.

HANDCRAFTED WITH PASSION IN LUXEMBOURG

Our products have been created as part of Ramborn's commitment to protecting and restoring the many unique varieties of fruit that grow in the region.

All of our apples, pears and quinces are handpicked in local meadow orchards and gardens, respecting nature and ancestral know-how, ensuring exceptional quality.

Ramborn harvests forgotten fruits, the gold of Luxembourg, in old orchards owned by local farmers. Our ciders, fruit wines and juices embody the richness of the varieties of heirloom apples, pears and quinces which have been cultivated for centuries in the Sauer river valley.

Our traditional manufacturing process emphasizes freshness by pressing the fruit at harvest to preserve and enhance their authentic flavors.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Why isn't Ramborn organic?

We don't use any sprayed fruit. No pesticides or insecticides are used in the orchards we source our fruit from.

We want to celebrate and share the true value of every single fruit tree in Luxembourg. Some of the people who we buy fruit from only have a few trees; some have just one single pear tree.

It is thus not possible to certify such a community effort as organic.

Discover the answers to your most common questions about our drinks and their unique flavors.

Are all the products really Made in Luxembourg?

Although most of our fruit comes from Luxembourg itself, a part of our 300 partner farms is based in the German border area. In addition, some of our ranges are bottled in Germany, less than 100 km away from Luxembourg. That is why only our Original Range benefits from the "Made in Luxembourg" label.
